Adjourned Railroad Meeting.

Held at the Court House, Portland, December 18, 1867.

Meeting called to order by A. P. Dennison, Secretary. The chairman of the previous meeting being absent, Gen. A. L. Lovejoy was called to the chair. The object of the meeting being stated, Col. W. W. Chapman, from the committee of seventeen, heretofore appointed, made the following report, with accompanying resolutions:

REPORT.

The Committee appointed at a public meeting of the citizens of Portland, Oregon, held at the Court House on the evening of the 7th of December, 1867, to take into consideration the various railroad projects into and through Oregon, ascertain what measures are necessary to be taken to reconcile conflicting interests, produce harmony and concert of action in their support, report:

That so far as your committee is informed there are four or five railroads in contemplation in which we the people of Oregon, feel a deep interest.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD

To run from Lake Superior to Puget Sound, with a branch following down the Columbia river to Portland. To appreciate the importance of this road, it is scarcely necessary to do more than turn to the map, mark its initial point and trace its line. When completed with its branch to Portland, it will afford us easy access to the valleys far up the Columbia, bringing us in close connection with the New England States open the way for, and direct the current of their immigration and commerce. In aid of its construction Congress has already granted liberally of the public lands. Further aid is now asked in the shape of subsidies. Its branch to Portland if ever constructed, will probably, in effect, become the main trunk, and Portland its door-way to Puget Sound.

THE SALT LAKE AND PORTLAND BRANCH

Of the Union Pacific Railroad to us is of paramount importance and demands our most careful support. As yet, no aid for its construction has been granted by the Government, nor has it had any Congressional recognition. Oregon, Washington and Idaho, claim to stand on an equal footing with California in their demand for a branch railroad; and no reason exists or can be assigned why the National Government should not extend the same parental aid to them that she has so liberally bestowed upon our sister State.

In geographical extent, agricultural and mineral resources, we are her equal. We ship our millions of gold and silver, wheat, flour, wool and other articles of commerce, and import our millions of merchandise. We lie more directly in the line of the China trade through the finest harbor on the Pacific coast. We have the Columbia river, itself a harbor, and navigable for hundreds of miles, with the best timber in the world for most uses, and abundance of it, and easy of access. Iron ore in great quantities and furnaces to smelt it; extensive iron works and machine shops; woolen factories and sheep with the finest wool; never-failing crops of wheat and flouring mills almost without number, and withal the cattle upon a thousand hills.

The branch road from Salt Lake to Portland would connect us by the shortest route with the great heart and body of the United States. In 1865 the Boston Board of Trade, appreciating the value to the New England States of the Northern Pacific Railroad, caused a report to be made upon the subject from which we make the following quotation: "The Central and Southern routes will bring the Pacific States in close connection with New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and New Orleans, and the trunk lines from some of these cities are already seeking to identify themselves with the companies proposing western extensions."

This frank admission of the city of Boston accords with what every man acquainted with the history of the country in this respect knows, has proved true. The conclusions from this is that the flow of commerce upon the Union Pacific Railroad, would be that of every State from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico. Of which it is but reasonable to conclude that a fair proportion would be destined for Idaho, Oregon and Washington. The route of the Portland branch lies through a rich mineral region, with its cities and towns; agricultural districts densely populated, having elegant farms in a high state of cultivation, all yielding their millions of gold and other articles of commerce. Stating a little more in detail, the road would probably shoot off as far east as Goose creek, and following down the Snake river valley, enter Boise valley, and through Boise city, the seat of Government of Idaho Territory. This valley is composed of rich agricultural lands, in a forward state of cultivation, surrounded upon all sides with extensive gold and silver mines, each district having its flourishing town. Idaho city distant 35 miles, Centerville, 40 miles; Placerville, 50 miles, Pioneer City, 60 miles; Ruby City, — miles; Silver City, — miles, with other towns of minor importance.

From Boise valley the route lies through the Payette and Weiser valleys, with agricultural lands and some settlements, and crossing Snake river near Olds' Ferry, pass through the Burnt and Powder river valleys in the county of Baker, embracing large quantities of good farming lands, and connected with extensive districts of gold, silver and copper mines of great richness. Baker City, the county seat of the county, is situated upon the route. Leaving these valleys, it lies through the Grand Ronde valley in Union county. This is a broad, level prairie, watered by the Grand Ronde river. The valley is densely populated, producing immense quantities of wheat and other grains. Union town, and La Grande, the county seat, are the principal towns. It has several flouring mills, manufacturing large quantities of flour. After crossing the Blue mountains, the route to the Columbia river lies through a district of country embracing agricultural lands of a superior quality, covered the year round with luxuriant growths of grass. Outside of the Indian reservation there are considerable settlements. The whole length of the route from Goose creek to Portland is about 567 miles. Of this, 212 miles on the Columbia and 120 on the Snake river, is navigable by steamboats, and may be used temporarily until the completion of the road; but this ought not in any manner to delay or suspend the prosecution of the work short of its entire completion.

We make these brief allusions to the country to show how important the proposed road is to our brethren and customers of Idaho and Eastern Oregon, while we think we are safe in saying that to Portland and Oregon generally its importance cannot be over estimated, and call for the best energies of our Senators and Representative in procuring the necessary aid to insure its immediate construction. Eastern Oregon pays its proportion in the support of the State government, and contributes to all our public improvements, and in the opinion of your committee no pains should be spared to bring about this desirable object so much needed by them and so beneficial to us.

The present is the most favorable time to press our claims. Other projects of a similar character though not antagonistic will be before Congress, and while it is on the giving hand, we may reasonably hope for success.

We think our success lies in looking to a connection with the Union Pacific railroad company for either a branch or an extension of their road to Portland. That company, through the various Eastern interconnections, and the travel and commerce connected with them, must be identified with the interests of a large majority of the States, and surveying the country north of California, including British Columbia and Vancouver Island, its resources and its commerce with the Atlantic, Western and Southwestern States, they can but see the importance of having an independent through line to Portland, connecting by means of a railroad to the Sound, with the China trade on a route 500 miles shorter than by way of San Francisco. These considerations cannot, we think, fail to exert a favorable influence upon the company and upon the States with whose interests they are identified. That company has already completed 500 miles of the great trunk, and are familiar with all the details of the work, their communications reach to almost every State, and their resources are supposed to be inexhaustible, and should they undertake it, it is not too much to expect its immediate commencement and early completion.

From the consideration of the subject of a through line of railroad, so rich in its promised results, we turn to one which, while it is more local, is no less pressing in its demands and promising in results.

PORTLAND AND VALLEY RAILROADS

Have engaged the attention of the people for several years past. Until recently it has been more or less a question whether the necessities of the country would justify embarking in the enterprise and we regret to say that even at this day there are those "of little faith." This, however, is no reason for discouragement. All experience hath shown, that where there is freedom of thought there will be difference of opinion.

The valleys of the Willamette, Umpqua and Rogue rivers, extending the whole length of the State north and south, a distance of 300 miles, and in width, including the foot-hills and accessible slopes of the mountains, about 70 miles as a district of country for climate, health, soil and productions is unequalled upon the Pacific coast. Limited and unsystematic as the cultivation of the soil has been, failure of the crops is unknown in Oregon. The promise of "seed time and harvest" is literally ours, and verily fulfilled. With all this it is admitted that but a small proportion of our valuable land is in cultivation, and in many sections of this favored country the products of cultivated lands lie rotting, because the cost and difficulties of transportation is a prohibitory tariff. The Boston Board of Trade know this. They at their great distance from us know our want of facilities for transportation. Hear what they say, speaking of Oregon: "Its soil is productive, and its climate temperate, its resources are only waiting transportation facilities across the continent to be speedily and greatly multiplied." We know that large fields, nay farms, lie idle from year to year because it is worse than idle to produce crops with no prospect of their reaching market with any return to the producer. (And the farther south you travel, the more apparent are these difficulties, and except as supported by a little interior trade, or long journeys to feeble and unstable markets, no wealth is accumulated from the productions of the soil. Large quantities of as good land as can be found upon the coast, is eat out in grazing, because of the want of transportation of wheat, oats, barley, etc.

How does this state of things affect the prosperity of Portland, the emporium of trade? It would be a work of supererogation to argue this question to our merchants and business houses. They know the laws of trade and walk thereby. The more of a staple article is produced and ready for a foreign market, the greater will be the demand for it in our home markets. A small quantity attracts no attention. We must be able to load ships at our wharves, and that must be done speedily and at the proper season. With the present facilities for transportation, with even the limited amount of wheat produced, we are neither able to get it to market in time, or in sufficient quantities to profit by the demand.

It is true, (and we avail ourselves of the fact as an argument) that the people of the districts in the immediate vicinity of Portland, were partially able to avail themselves of the late rise in the price of wheat, but this was at a loss of time in transportation, sufficient in which to have ploughed and sown wheat enough with facilities for transportation, to have brought the wheat in market, yet not more probably than one fourth the wheat is in market.

Admitting that we have a river running through the heart of the valley, still it is not navigated any considerable distance for the transportation of the products of the country at the proper season, nor is it for this purpose, available at any season for the great mass of the farmers, saying nothing of the cost of transportation.

One of the great drawbacks to the prosperity of any country, is the high cost of transportation. This not only strikes primarily at the producer, the farmer and his farm, and keeps both poor, but their losses are reflected upon every branch of industry. When the farmer is prosperous he purchases more merchandise, secures more comforts, and consumes more luxuries. He builds better houses and barns, uses improved implements; raises the finest stock and employs more labor. All this improvement is divided with the mechanic, merchant, importer and carrier; and so the whole community is prospered because of the prosperity upon the farm, where all our solid and enduring prosperity is founded. But the farmer cannot be prosperous where one third the value of his crops must go to him alone who carries it to market. A railroad or railroads through these valleys would always secure him transportation, at the proper season and at living fair rates by producing competition with the boats.

From statistics compiled by W. J. McAlpin, State Engineer of the State of New York, he finds that the average cost of transportation by railroad is thirteen mills per ton per mile. From a table of the freight charges on the Willamette river, published November 1, 1866, we learn that the average charge on this river is one hundred and seventy mills per ton per mile. Now we respectfully submitted that neither the farmer nor the interests of the city of Portland can be prospered under such a state of affairs, constituting, as it does, one of the strongest appeals to take hold of this enterprise.

The wonderful effect of railroad transportation may be seen in the rapid growth and unparalleled prosperity of the Western States. There tardy villages have been transferred in cities, and cities have sprung up from naked prairies in a day. Every one can call up instances of this rapid development. One of the most noticeable elements of this development may be found in the increase of the wheat crops in these States.

In 1860, Wisconsin had no railways and Illinois next to none. The wheat crop of Wisconsin that year was 4,250,000 bushels, Illinois, 9,500,000; of Pennsylvania, 15,500,000, and Pennsylvania was then the greatest wheat producer of all the States by 2,000,000 bushels. But from 1850 to 1860 Wisconsin and Illinois completed their thorough railroad system, which enabled them cheaply and readily to bring their grain to the markets of Chicago and Milwaukie; and so in the year 1860, we find by the census tables, Wisconsin produced 15,657,458 bushels of wheat; Illinois, 23,837,023 bushels; and Pennsylvania but 13,000,000. During the ten years between 1850 and 1860, there was a decided falling off in the wheat production of New York and Pennsylvania; but at the same time, almost wholly through the encouragement given to production by railway transportation, the five great wheat States of the West, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa, increased in production 47,000,000 bushels per annum—over three hundred per cent, on the products of 1850 was yielded in 1860. What is quite as remarkable, the price of wheat was nearly twice as high in the latter as in the former year. In the same State a similar increase is noted in almost every other agricultural production.

To determine the propriety of constructing a railroad through the Willamette valley, something over a year ago, a gentleman interested in the subject, sent out a circular to railroad Presidents, county and State officers and land officers in the Eastern States, asking for a great variety of information. Many of these original circulars have been returned with the interrogations answered, and have been laid before your committee. We cannot epitomise all the information they afford, although all is valuable and interesting, but we select a few points.—The construction of the North Missouri Railroad increased the value of the land along its line five times its value before the construction of the road. The county of Audrian is given as an example, where before construction of the road the assessment roll showed $600,000 taxable property in the county, but after its construction, in two years, the assessment roll showed $3,000,000. The city of Evansville, Indiana, subscribed $200,000 to the Evansville and Crawfordsville road, and it was not necessary to increase the rate of taxation to pay interest on that amount, such was the increase of taxable values. The Maine Central Railroad draws its trade from a strip of country eight miles wide on each side of the line (not a very good country, as is well known) and its nett earnings over and above all expenses are $22,000, on 110 miles of road. The Dubuque and Sioux City Railroad (Iowa) increased the value of land along its line two hundred per cent., and saves forty per cent. of its income off a local population of 57,000. The Cumberland Valley Railroad (Pennsylvania) derives its traffic from a valley 12 to 20 miles wide and 75 miles long, and pays its stockholders eight per cent. cash dividends. The Secretary of State of Wisconsin writes that railroads have quadrupled the value of land in that State, and in no case has the rate of taxation been increased to meet interest on county or State subscriptions.

The increase of population consequent upon the commencement of the road is a subject of itself of great interest, but when completed the increase will be in a ratio with astonishing rapidity, and will quite compensate the State were she alone to build it. Satisfied therefore of the propriety of laying hold of this great enterprise, and that with a strong arm, it is advisable to consider the subject with reference to the so that not only the citizens of Portland, but of the whole State, may give understandingly, their most efficient aid to be appropriated harmoniously for the public good.

Congress, by an act passed the 25th of July, 1866, granted to the State each alternate section of the public land, 25 miles in width on each side of the line of the proposed road, to aid in its construction. The State Legislature, to make the grant available and ensure the construction of the road, by an act passed the 24th of October, 1866, provided and declared "that the State of Oregon shall pay the interest for 20 years on one million dollars of the bonds of the Oregon Central Railroad, as laid out by act of Congress approved July 25th, 1866. Two companies have been organized, each calling itself "The Oregon Central Railroad Company." One company, headed by J. Gaston, Esq., is prosecuting its surveys through Multnomah, Washington and Yamhill counties, and propose to construct their road entirely upon the west side of the Willamette river. It is also canvassing vigorously for stock, and as we learn, has procured to be taken in the locality of the proposed road over $200,000. The other company, represented by Mr Perine, professes to have contracted East for the construction of their road from Portland south, a distance of 150 miles, and as we learn, have sent on several hundred thousand dollars of bonds of the company, on telegraphic advices of which, they say, the iron and rolling stock for one section will be shipped. Recently other articles of incorporation have been filed contemplating the construction of a railroad from Portland to the Humboldt there to intersect the California and Salt Lake Railroad, properly known as the Central Pacific Road. The construction of this road depends upon whether Congress shall grant a subsidy.

The construction of a railroad or roads from Portland south, is of too much importance to admit of controversy or litigation respecting the application of the contemplated aid. Assuming that both are equally sanguine of success, and both are acting in good faith, what ought the State to do? What ought Portland to do? What can her capitalists safely do?

We think the difficulty can be overcome in this way. The Gaston company, by resolution irrevocable, without forfeiting their stock already subscribed, declared that the road by it to be constructed, shall run entirely upon the west side of the river; consequently there is not the remotest probability of any stock being taken upon the east side. This necessarily forces any company that has been or may be organized for the construction of another road from Portland to Eugene to keep upon the east side of the river after leaving the vicinity of Portland, at least so far as regards the influence of subscriptions to stock. Any other company certainly could have no motive in running a road on the west side any great distance. And thus it is, if the west side company shall be successful in prosecuting their enterprise (and we have no reason to doubt it) that unless there shall be two roads, the east side will be partially ignored in railroad facilities. The Gaston Company rests its hopes of success upon the Acts of Congress—the aid from the State, and west side stock. Whether the Perine Company yet claims the National and State aid, we are officially uninformed, but believe they do not; but we do know that it is quite as necessary for a road mainly on the east side of the Willamette as upon the west side, it is as practicable and the people on that side will feel as able to take stock in such a road, should the Perine project fail, and Portland and vicinity have an equal interest in the success of the two roads. If one road can be constructed dependent entirely for its support upon one side, another road, dependent entirely for support upon the other side, can be constructed. And we think this difficulty can only be overcome by constructing two roads, one on each side of the river as high as Eugene City, there intersecting, and from Eugene City to Jacksonville by a single line; that the same aid, both National and State, should be granted to both roads.

As a matter of fact, the construction of a road on one side of the Willamette is not so important to the other.

We think, therefore, the State should provide for the payment of the interest upon two millions of bonds for the construction of the two roads intersecting at Eugene City, and when necessary, the interest upon a million in aid of the road to Jacksonville. These roads constructed, the State would be more than reimbursed the interest so provided for.

Your Committee are of the opinion that considering the incalculable advantage, the construction of these roads would be to Portland that the city should ask legislative authority to submit to the owners of taxable property the propriety of either taking stock or guaranteeing the interest upon an amount of the bonds, not exceeding one million of dollars.

We should not look upon the guarantee herein recommended as payable immediately from the present resources of the country, but consider that sections of the roads must be completed before any obligation is incurred, and then, that interest only runs as the money shall be expended. We should also consider that from the hour that ground shall be broken in these great improvements, that consequent thereon, and the faithful prosecution of the work, there will be such an increase of population, rise in the demand for and price of lands, improvement of farms and cultivation of the soil, and in the estimation of the world, such assurance of our greatness as a State, in thus preparing to receive that flow of commerce that must inevitably accompany the extension of the Pacific Railroad, as will enable the State to meet her engagements without inconvenience.

Under such assurances the future of the City of Portland must not be left out of consideration. With the commerce of the Salt Lake Branch Railroad; the Northern Pacific Branch Railroad, the Willamette and Jacksonville Railroad, the Puget Sound and Portland Railroad, and that of the Columbia and Willamette rivers, together with being brought into close connection with the worlds' commerce, who can estimate or place a limit to the greatness of our city. These things are all within our power. If we do them we shall be well rewarded in our day and millions will rise up and call us blessed.

In view of the above facts, your committee herewith submit the following resolutions:

Resolved, That our Senators and Representatives be instructed to favor the construction of the Northern Pacific Railroad, with a branch to Portland, by all necessary legislation.

2. That our Senators and Representatives in Congress be and they are hereby requested to urge upon Congress the indispensable necessity of constructing a branch Railroad from the Union Pacific Railroad at or near Salt Lake, through Idaho and Eastern Oregon, to the city of Portland; and that they use the utmost of their ability to secure Congressional aid to this great work, similar to that granted to the Main Trunk from Omaha westward.

3. That it is expedient that there should be constructed two Railroads from the city of Portland—one crossing the river at some practicable point between the city of Portland and Oregon City and running on the east side; and the other on the west side of the Willamette, and intersecting at Eugene City; and thence by a single line extending south through Umpqua and Rogue river valleys to Jacksonville.

4. That the same national aid should, and to the extent of our efforts shall be given to aid in the construction of the roads as set forth in the third resolution.

5. That the State by a Legislative Act, should [illegible] to pay the interest on two million dollars of bonds, with proper limitations and safeguards, for an equal amount on each road to Eugene City; and in like manner when necessary, on one million more for the extension from Eugene City to Jacksonville.

6. That the city of Portland will ask legislative authority to submit to the owners of taxable property the propriety of taking stock, or guaranteeing the payment of the interest on not exceeding one million of dollars of bonds, for the construction of the Portland and Jacksonville road.

7. That a committee of three be appointed to [illegible] and correspond with the officers and agents of the several railroad organizations in which the people of this [illegible] feel interested, for the purpose of [illegible] their [illegible]ration; and to obtain [illegible] to the several counties of Oregon, with [illegible] to the [illegible] in these resolutions contained.

8. That our Senators and Representatives be requested to procure an extension of time to the Oregon Central Railroad Company, in which to build the first [illegible] of the road provided for in the act of Congress of the 25th July, 1866, and procure an equal amount of aid for a road upon each side of the river from the city of Portland, one road crossing the river at some suitable point [illegible] the city of Portland and Oregon city.

9. That our favor to the road upon the west side of the river, is upon condition that it run through a pass in the mountains not further north than the Cornell Pass; and that our citizens are hereby recommended to take [illegible] in said road and make [illegible] only upon this [illegible].

10. That the thanks of the citizens of Portland are hereby tendered to the President and Directors of the Oregon Central Railroad Company west, for their favor in visiting us and attending this meeting.

On motion of Gen. M. M. McCarver, the report and resolutions were accepted and the committee discharged.

The same gentleman moved the adoption of the report and resolutions, pending which, the following gentlemen addressed the meeting: Ex-Gov. Gibbs, Gen. McCarver, Judge Upton, Col. W. W. Chapman and Judge Shattuck, when the question being put, was adopted almost unanimously.

On motion of J. B. Price, the following resolution was adopted:

11. Resolved, That the several [illegible] of Idaho, Montana, Washington and Oregon, be [illegible] this report and resolutions, and that the [illegible] be directed to furnish to our Senators and [illegible] in Congress copies of the proceedings and resolutions.

A. P. Dennison offered the following resolution, (No. 12,) which was adopted:

12. Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Chair to procure the printing of 1,000 copies of the report in pamphlet form.

On motion the chair appointed a committee of Correspondence, in accordance with resolution No. 7. Col. Chapman, Judge Shattuck and A. P. Dennison were appointed said committee.

The chair also appointed the following committee, in accordance with resolution No. 12: A. P. Dennison, C. M. Carter, C. W. Burrage, [illegible] M. M. McCarver and J. B. Price.

The meeting extended an invitation to the President and Directors of the Oregon Central Railroad Company to address the meeting.

Mr. Gaston, President, and Mr. Newby, one of the directors, addressed the meeting in [illegible] speech[es].

On motion, adjourned with the day.

FRIDAY MORNING DEC 20 1867

The President and Congress

If the principal point which Mr Johnson labors so hard to make in his message be well taken, viz That the interference of Congress with the affairs of the insurgent States is a usurpation of powers not granted to any branch of the Government by the Constitution it becomes highly interesting to inquire where he got his authority to deal with those States as he himself has done His special pleading against Congress on this subject is both puerile and dishonest He denies the right of that body to prescribe any conditions whatever for the readmission of the rebel States he denounces such a policy as an unwarrantable interference with the State rights and holds, that, to prescribe terms or dictate conditions of restoration is entirely unconstitutional His doctrine is that States must not be dictated to in this manner Yet in 1865 he himself did just what he now so violently condemns Congress for doing We do not go to his stump speeches or his reception addresses for proof of this, it is written in his State papers and officially attested by his Secretary On the 27th of October, 1865, the Provisional Governor of Georgia telegraphed to Mr Johnson 'We are pressed on the war debt What should the Convention do?'' Mr. Seward replied ''The President cannot recognize the people of any State as having resumed their relations of loyalty to the Union that admits as legal obligations contracted to promote the rebellion.'' On the 6th of November, 1865, Mr. Seward telegraphed to the Provisional Governor of South Carolina, ''The President considers the acceptance of the (emancipation) amendment by South Carolina as indispensable to a restoration of her relations with the other States of the Union' Here we find that the President has dictated to those States in the very manner which he now declares is unconstitutional. Mr. Johnson informed those States that they must adopt the amendment abolishing slavery before they could be restored to the Union, but when Congress, the only branch of the Government that has a right to deal with this question, presents an amendment and demands its ratification, Johnson declaims against the unconstitutionality of the measure! If Johnson had a right to demand the ratification of an amendment as a condition of readmission, can any one tell why Congress has not the same right? If Johnson had a right to demand that States should adopt a resolution forbidding the payment of the rebel debt, can any one tell why Congress has not a right to insist that they shall make this [illegible] by constitutional enactment? The charge of ''usurpation'' which he makes in his message, therefore recoils on his own head. So also with reference to his charges against Congress for regulating the suffrage in the rebel States. In his proclamation appointing Provisional Governors and authorizing State Conventions to be held, he prescribed the qualifications of voters, and [illegible] to exclude numerous [illegible] from the exercise of political rights. Yet he now says that Congress cannot meddle with the [illegible] in the South! This is the message which is [illegible] to as an unanswerable argument! No similar production ever had so many vulnerable points, none ever so completely furnished its own [illegible].

Why the People Look to Gen. Grant

[From the [illegible] (Mass.) Republican]

The [illegible] attempt to believe that the Republican party [illegible] Gen Grant for its presidential [illegible], not because it prefers him, but because it can hope to elect nobody else. They ignore the fact that he has all along been the favorite [illegible] with the mass of the party, and that [illegible] who pass for party leaders have not hitherto [illegible] for him, have pretty much all of them had aspirations of their own for the Presidency. The People from principle have been inclined to look to Gen. Grant as the next President ever since the war closed, and not because there was any [illegible] for securing the [illegible] of his military prestige, but from a conviction that no other man could so well reconcile all [illegible] and promote harmony and fraternal feeling between the sections lately at war. The [illegible] so conspicuous in the fall elections has added a new motive, and made it evident that we need Gen. Grant for our candidate, [illegible] we can elect him, and because we are not sure that we can elect any other man And it is now a [illegible] considered as good as settled, and of [illegible] the hangers-on of the party all at once [illegible] that they are for Grant and throw up their caps with all the zeal of new recruits

The South honors him, scarcely less than the North, as a brave and successful soldier, as a true man, incapable of insulting or trampling on a prostrate foe, and ready to grasp hands in friendship with those against whom he has fought, [illegible] they [illegible] a bad cause. A politician who has risen to [illegible] by agitating against slavery [illegible] necessarily retains something of the old bitterness of the polemical contest, and finds it much harder than does the soldier to forgive the vanquished party. We have had conspicuous examples of this in the two years past, and [illegible] of such intellectual caliber and knowledge of history that we had a right to [illegible] better things of them With one of this class as a candidate for President, we should have the battles of the past fought over again, its animosities [illegible], and sectional hostilities perpetuated. This we do not want.

It is time to let the dead past bury its dead There is no slavery to fight about. We are a nation of equal [illegible], with every reason to cultivate the most friendly and intimate relations between all [illegible] and sections. We want the era of peace to begin. It is with such feelings and hopes as these that the people turn to Gen Grant He has led them to final victory over rebellion they look to him to lead in the equally essential work of allaying animosities, and restoring unity and fraternity among the people, re-establishing the reign of civil law, and bringing order and [illegible] out of the present confusion His election will [illegible] the South, not humiliate it, will remove all the painful uncertainties and forebodings that now [illegible] upon us, and give confidence and hope to the whole country.

A NATURAL SUPPOSITION.—The Dayton (Ohio) Journal says that a gentleman who resides across the Miami, within the favored territory which was annexed to the city by the vote of Tuesday [illegible], was somewhat annoyed on Wednesday morning at the delay of his help—a clever Erin [illegible] in bringing out his horse and buggy, as [illegible], to take him to the city Going out to the barnyard he found Pat busily at work putting things to rights. ''Pat!' called Mr X 'Sir!' returned Pat ''What's the reason you don't bring out my horse and buggy—eh?'' ''Beg yer pardon, sir!'' returned Pat ''but I didn't know you wanted it?'' ''Why, man, you know I always want my horse and buggy in the morning to drive to the city.'' ''Be me sowkens, sir I thought we was all voted into the city yesterday, sure [illegible], sir, an' seein' that we're in the city now I [illegible] thought you'd not be after wantin' the [illegible] at all, at all!'' Mr X explained to Pat that, although the city limits would probably be [illegible] around them, the distance to the center of the town would not be shortened by the process, and the horse and buggy would continue to be a [illegible].

A SOUND WONDER.—One of the most remarkable and pleasing illustrations of the properties of sound is the extinguishing of a lighted candle by pure noise Professor Tyndall in one of his experiments places a lighted candle on a table at the end of a tube, supported on rocket holders, resting on the table The end of the tube near the candle is small and pointed. The other end is large and open. By clapping two books together at the large end, Professor Tyndall extinguishes the candle at the other end ''Pooh!'' says the over-intelligent reader, ''that is nothing It is simply blowing out a candle through a pipe'' No such thing, super sagacious critic, as Professor Tyndall proceeds to prove He burns a piece of brown paper in the tube, filling it with smoke Now, if the candle be put out by a blow, smoke will [illegible] from the pointed end of the tube Again Professor Tyndall claps the books Again the candle goes out but no smoke comes out of the pointed end of the tube Whatever has put out the [illegible] has passed through the air and smoke in the tube The light is extinguished by a pulse, not by a puff The candle is put out by sound—noise

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

DATES TO DECEMBER 18.

Financial Matters.

CHICAGO Dec 18 —The following is a synopsis of the bill prepared by the Senate Finance Committee for funding the national debt The bill authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to issue such registered coupon bonds as he shall prescribe payable principal and interest, in coin bearing interest at six per cent payable in forty years from date and redeemable in [illegible] at the pleasure of the Government after ten years They are to be issued to an amount sufficient to cover all outstanding [illegible] [illegible] to be disposed [illegible] [illegible] as the Secretary of the Treasury shall [illegible] [illegible] in exchange for existing securities

Section two provides for the entire exemption of those bonds [illegible] taxation whether of State municipal or other authority The interest thereon and income therefor to be exempt from payment all except income duties to the United States but in consideration of such exemption the Treasurer shall reserve one-sixth of the interest accruing, which sum in lawful money shall form a special fund one half to be distributed among the several States in proportion according to population the remaining half to apply to the payment of the national debt in the manner afterwards provided

Section [illegible] substitutes for a sinking fund as provided by present laws a plan appropriating parts from the moneys not otherwise appropriated in the treasury, a sum which includes the amount necessary for the payment of interest one-half to be received for a tax as aforesaid which sum during each fiscal year after the current fiscal year shall be applied to reduce the public debt in such manner as may be determined upon by the Secretary of the Treasury or as Congress shall hereafter direct The bill further provides that five twenty bonds shall at the expiration of five years from date at the option of the holders thereof be changed for bonds authorized by this act Such as are now redeemable shall be provided for exchange on or before the first of November next and thereafter The residue to be presented on or before the expiration of five years from their date

Section 5 provides that holders of any lawful money of the United States, to the amount of one hundred dollars, may convert the same into bonds for an equal amount the notes so received to be held in the Treasury as a part of reserve already provided for and holders of any five-twenty bonds, or bonds contemplated by this act may demand redemption in lawful manner and the Treasury shall redeem the same in lawful manner unless amount of United States notes then outstanding shall equal $400,000 000 but such bonds shall not be redeemable after resumption of specie payment The Secretary of the Treasury in order to carry out the provision is requested to maintain in the Treasury, a reserve of not less than fifty millions of lawful money similar in all respects to United States notes authorized by law, provided the same shall not at any time exceed four hundred million To enable the Secretary to redeem securities of the United States held abroad, he is authorized to issue bonds payable principle and interest in coin in Frankfort and London, the bonds bearing interest of four and one half per cent payable semi-annually at a rate of exchange equivalent to 5 francs on the dollar, such bonds to be payable in forty years, [illegible] after one hundred and twenty years from date at pleasure of the United States, in coin at like rate of exchange, and to be issued to an amount not to exceed $500 000, to be exchanged for an equal amount of 5.20 bonds, or disposed of on such terms not less than par in lawful money as the Secretary may deem best

Congressional.

In the House, Elliott, of Massachusetts offered a resolution asking of the Secretary of State information in regard to American whalers being [illegible] off the [illegible] coast of America.

Garfield, from the Military Committee, reported a bill giving an honorable discharge to all persons relieved from the army without leave. Pending the debate the morning hour expired and the bill went over

Butler, of Massachusetts, reported a bill of appropriations to supply the deficiency in the execution of the reconstruction law The whole amount appropriated is $12, 665,000

The Speaker presented the President's Message in commendation of General Hancock. Some excitement was occasioned by its reading among the Republicans It was ordered printed.

Stevens introduced the bill he sought to introduce yesterday regarding reconstruction In order not to retard the passage of the bill, he withdrew the section in regard to the election of Congressmen in the Southern States The bill passed

WASHINGTON, Dec 18.—The President sent into Congress to-day a communication extolling Gen Hancock's administration and asking Congress to take suitable action He says Hancock is the only officer of the American army in high command south of the Potomac, since the close of the war, who was influenced by the example of Washington, who scrupulously abstained from violating the constitutional rights of his fellow citizens, and suggests some public recognition of Hancock's patriotic conduct

CHICAGO, Dec 18 —Stevens' bill as passed, simply provides that a majority of the votes cast, instead of a majority of the registered votes shall be sufficient to ratify the Constitution so that the people may vote for members of Congress at the same time that they vote for the Constitution.

WASHINGTON, Dec 16.—In the Senate a resolution was passed asking the President for information respecting the English joint occupation of the Island of San Juan

The Judiciary Committee reported in favor of the admission of Mr Thomas, Senator elect from Maryland.

The bill to repeal cotton tax was debated.

[illegible] in Texas

NEW ORLEANS, Dec 18 —Gen Hancock has ordered an election in Texas for and against a Convention, to convene February 10th and continue four days Each ballot [illegible] by a negro is to be marked 'colored' No soldiers will be allowed in the vicinity of the polls not registered as voters.

Fearful Railroad Accident.

CHICAGO, Dec 19 —A fearful accident occurred on the Cleveland and Lake Shore railroad. The express train was behind time, and running at a high rate of speed From some cause unknown, the two rear cars were thrown off the track with great violence. The rear car went over an embankment fifty feet, and was set on fire Out of fifty passengers only two escaped alive The rest were [illegible] or burned to death. A mass of blackened and charred remains was only left.

From Mexico

HAVANA, Dec. 19 —Dates from Mexico to Dec 10 The Mexican Congress opened on the 8th. Juarez's message speaks in the most flattering manner of the bravery of the Mexican troops He is grateful for the sympathy of the South American republics and compliments the action of the United States. The most important part of the message is the passing into the hands of Congress all extraordinary powers A British war steamer has arrived with orders to bring away all employees of the British Consul in Mexico, consequently there is great excitement among the English residents but residents and the bank continue business Brownsville papers say that Mexican refugees are being arrested under authority of Gen Reynolds and turned over to Mexican authorities as deserters

The Cheapest Prices!

AND THAT ALL MAY OBSERVE

The Christmas and New Years'

HOLIDAYS!

I herewith issue my Annual

PROCLAMATION!!!

I've come, my dear people, among you once more,
Keeping up the good custom established of yore
I bid you all welcome I wish you good cheer—
A right merry Christmas and Happy New Year!
You will find me this year as you have heretofore,
At McCormick's, on Front street—the Franklin Book Store
Where I've opened my Budget— twas filled to the brim
With every nice Toy that could talk walk or swim
I've Musical Work Boxes—and Guitars for the fair
And Gifts for the Gents that are both rich and rare,
Whilst my Budget includes the nicest new Toys
[illegible] as Gifts to good Girls and Boys
I've the Ark in which Grandfather Noah was kept
When all other creatures from the world were swept,
(For men in those days would in evil persist,
So the world was washed by an Oregon mist!)
I've Babies of Rubber of wax and of leather,
(They were all made to order) and well put together
I've Vases and Cups nicely gilded outside
And little Cock Horses for Hobbies to ride,
I've Cannon and Pistols which cannot explode,
For the reason they hold neither wadding or load,
I've steamboats that run—you just wind them in front
And they'll beat the Cascade or the Wilson G Hunt
I've a new Locomotive—It can never explode
'Twas built for the use of Gaston's Railroad,
I've Engines that play—Set them down on the floor
And they'll throw greater streams than old 2 or new 4
I've Furniture, Fiddles and French Fusileers,
Soldiers that look like B B Pioneers
I've Swords made of tin—Guns and Pistols as well,
And the new kind of Drum that rings like a bell,
I've Masks of all sizes—I've Grace Hoops galore
And you'll find at McCORMICK'S a thousand Toys more,
On FRONT STREET the Store is—105,
Where TOYS are as plenty as bees in a hive;
Go there and buy them—this is my request,
His Prices are Low and his Stock is the Best

OWYHEE CORRESPONDENCE.—Under this head the Owyhee Avalanche of the 7th published a lengthy and quite interesting letter dated Portland, Nov 21, 1867 and from which we take a few extracts of local interest. Speaking of Celilo, the writer says 'This town has but few buildings—the principal one being the spacious ... of the O S N Co. This structure is over 1 000 feet long—the steamers receiving and discharging their freight on the river side and the cars on the land side. The building is so constructed that freight is passed to and from these cars with little labor and cost, as are the freight depots at the Dalles and Upper and Lower Cascades The car ride from here to [illegible] was made in half an hour, distance, 15 miles. After supper, I strolled round and through the main ... of Dalles City—a place of probably 2,000 inhabitants, but having so many vacant houses both business and dwelling—I may overestimate the population It is no more the second town in importance in Oregon. The Railroad operated witheringly upon it Previous to its construction it was the chief point of trade and shipment to Eastern Oregon and all of Idaho. It contains many costly brick and stone buildings—quite a number of which are labeled For Sale, or To Rent It will ... never be again the fast and money making town it has been * * * The Upper Cascades consists of a few buildings—some of them wearing an aged ... An old storehouse, a few dwellings, a saw mill and a ..., crumbling blockhouse, once (1855-56) ... by the present distinguished General Sheridan, are the distinguishing characteristics of man's work here. The ... between here and lower Cascades is five miles in length. The upper half has cost much labor and ... the ... but little. The Lower Cascades is an ... burg, built in a small flat of fine rich soil ... and other relics of military creation ...'

Of Portland, the correspondent says. 'I found the sun ... with ..., at effulgence upon this city and a ... air of business prosperity prevailing in it Business ... not to be so rushing as a few years ago, yet profitable. The manufacturing interests are extensive for a city of 8,000 inhabitants; its commerce ... largely and is ... by soil of generous fertility ... with all the staple grains roots and ... and in the city, cultivated shrubbery and flowers ... content and cheer... within The city is amply provided with spacious ... religious, and for the ad... of county and city ... WINTER.—We had yesterday a day of genuine Webfoot winter—a little snow much rain some wind and chill dreariness everywhere and all day The hills in sight looked gray and cold The day was the most thoroughly uncomfortable of the season

TREASURE RECEIPT.—Wells Fargo & Co received yesterday by the Hunt $15 000 in treasure from the Upper Columbia.

STATE ITEMS

The city of Salem is out of debt and has money in the treasury

The river fell very rapidly at Salem on Tuesday and Wednesday

A Salem paper learns that the rise in the river has carried away the main dam of the Harrisburg flouring mills A slough of the river is dammed and the water taken a mile in a ditch to the mills The slough dam being destroyed the mills will lose the whole season's work as it cannot be repaired until next summer.

The amenities of Democratic journalism in this State find a tolerably good illustration—about up to the average—in what the Albany Democrat says about a cotemporary: And this pimp—this hypocrite—this whited sepulchre—this hired scavenger—this blasphemer—this bag of wind,—this tifalutin moonstruck rapsodist—this paid libeller and villifier has the effrontery to charge us with writing abominable stuff

The Record of Thursday says We learn from Dr Lister just from the Ellendale Mills that the dam across the Rickreal has given way causing a stoppage of the machinery The same old dam built twenty years ago, for the Nesmith flouring mills has been used by the Ellendale Factory very imprudently as it seems, for the timbers that composed it had become entirely rotten and the high water has destroyed it The intention now is to turn the water of a creek distant a few hundred yards, and make it answer a present use It is expected that the machinery will be running again early in January It is to be hoped the stoppage will be only transient

TRINITY CHURCH.—The members of the Church and others interested in the Christmas decorations are requested to meet at the Vestry Rooms to-day at 10½ o clock The usual services this evening and also the Sunday School on Sunday next will be deferred until the following week

CONTINUATION OF JEWELRY SALE.—The sale of jewelry by Mr A B Richardson, auctioneer, will be continued at 10 A. M to-day, at the store of Goldsmith Bros. The trade will find it to their advantage to be present.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO THE LADIES.—Just received, per steamer Oriflamme, a splendid lot of the most elegant Furs ever brought to this place Also, some beautiful Velvet Cloaks and several other articles suitable for Christmas presents For particulars, call on Mrs C Levy, 80 First street

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS

At this period there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer but while some extol it as a liniment they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally and it stands alone, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines and its sale is universal and immense The demand for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the demand at home and it has become known in these far off places by its merits

Just Cause for being Alarmed.—When a Cough has been running for a long time and you begin to feel a pain settling upon your lungs attended with tightness across the chest it is high time that you should awaken to the danger of your disease, which is fast running into Consumption Now before it is too late use ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM which will cure the disease and all will be well with you For sale by the Dealers in Family Medicines generally

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!

A Pure and Powerful Tonic,

Corrective and Alterative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.

PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.

Prevents Fever and Ague and ... Remittent Fevers, Fortifies the System against Miasma and the evil effects of unwholesome water, invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.

REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.

Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea sickness, Cramps and Spasms and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant but is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia and in less confirmed forms of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless aperient as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits and Fits of Languor, find prompt and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day

FOR SALE AT A SLIGHT ADVANCE ON SAN FRANCISCO RATES.

Now's the Day and Now's the Hour.

Under this caption the San Francisco News Letter submits the following, which contains, although written in an extravagant and racy style, too much truth to be consigned to the tomb of the Capulets:

We have all read of the lice and locusts of Egypt; how rats came down from Norway in overwhelming droves; how squirrels emigrate in immense herds; how grasshoppers swarm upon fields, and the army worm, with resistless march, sweeps all before it; how, in Africa, the rodent takes up his line of travel, eating all before him. All these remarkable facts in natural history are now being excelled in California. Henry H. Haight, the Democratic Governor elect, is the Egyptian upon whom the lice are crawling, the locusts are devouring. He is the happy land to which all the Democratic squirrels are emigrating. He is the new craft to which every old political rat is now swimming for dear life. He is the corn and grass of a [illegible] juices, upon whom all the party grasshoppers now propose to feed. He is the Mecca of all the rag, tag, and bobtail pilgrims, and as the Gubernatorial mountain will not go to the local and county Mahomets, these prophets are coming to him. His entire vote in the State was only 49,905, and already, we are informed upon the most veracious authority, that he has had over 50,000 applications for office; and the cry is still they come, and like the daughters of the horseleech, the cry is "give, give!" All nationalities except the Chinese, all brotherhoods except the old Republicans, all colors except black, come crawling to his feet, lick his hands in hope to pick up the crumbs that fall from the political table. The Germans are clamorous for office because they elected him, and it is even said that there are some Irishmen who hope to be rewarded for their long service to the Democracy. The hungriest and the leanest crowd is the old chivalry, and in our opinion they are the most deserving; at all events, they are around in numbers. Members of the first families of Virginia and Carolina, descendants from Pocahontas and Georgia majors: Charles, [illegible] Earl of Fairfax and William, last Duke of [illegible], are standing about convenient for the [illegible] to find the man. Broad brim hats, unfamiliar for the last six years, again make their appearance upon our streets; old fossils dug from the anti-pluvial era of Republican deluge, are again crawling up to the surface and warming themselves in the sunlight of their new hopes. Old butternut trowsers again walk our streets as bright as new, the old holes repatched, and the ever-present crook-topped hickory cane swings pendant from the arm, as waiting for whisky, the falling sleeve leans in early nonchalance against our lamp posts. We hail the good old times, and look forward to the happy period when Custom House and Mint will again become the alms-house of the Democracy, where the old chronic cases may find whisky for the present, consolidation for the [illegible], and security and shelter for the future. New England has had her pay, let Ireland [illegible] here: We re[illegible] that two years ago, when the D[illegible] went shivering along our streets; [illegible] together their fears; Yanks [illegible] jelly; now the tables turn, and the [illegible] gentleman from North America looks [illegible] and glum; he whispers around the [illegible], and looks blue at the news from New York and Pennsylvania, while the gentleman from Ireland and the gentleman from Germany, and the [illegible] from South Carolina, look as [illegible] they had been resurrected to a new and happy life. We wish everybody joy and every Democrat a place. We extend a cordial invitation to all [illegible] politicians to come down and see Governor Haight; there is a great multitude of [illegible] to fill, and every man who voted the [illegible] is entitled to a place. Wharfingers along our [illegible]; Notaries Public to the number of twenty; Harbor Commissioners, with deputies and [illegible], a force of not less than fifty guards at the State Prison, and room for more [illegible]; odd places all around the State, and at [illegible] the Legislature [illegible], a multitude of [illegible] labor is light, pay excellent and [illegible] the reach of all. Let every [illegible] to San Francisco and see the Governor; call at his office during business hours; if he is not in follow him up; go to his [illegible] day is an excellent time to find him [illegible]. If you can't find the Governor, his [illegible] Mr. [illegible] Temple, will be pleased to hear [illegible] in full detail. See Tom Cannan [illegible] with the Governor; so has Mr. [illegible] of the County Committee. Do not [illegible] unturned, and if everything [illegible] will at least give you a situation on the [illegible].

The Walled Lake.

A [illegible] of the C[illegible] writing from Des Moines, Iowa, says:

"[illegible] in a Chicago [illegible] that the walled lake of this State was probably [illegible] is one in Wright county and one in Sac county. They are indeed wonderful, [illegible] H. C. [illegible] the following description of the one in Sac county. He says it is situated in the north part of township 86, range 36, and [illegible] part of township 87, range 36. Its greatest [illegible] five miles, and from one-half to two [illegible] in width. It is a beautiful sheet of [illegible], with a nice, gravelly bottom.

[illegible] end of the lake there [illegible] gravel bank, gradually sloping into the [illegible] by the north [illegible] about one quarter of a mile. The wall [illegible] the banks become very steep and [illegible] from three to six feet in height. The lake [illegible] the walls are heavier, and at [illegible] width the walls are very thick, [illegible] about one mile and [illegible] east end of the lake, up the [illegible]. From two to five feet [illegible] low [illegible] climbing [illegible], with this exception, next to the water it is [illegible] gradually [illegible] to the top, [illegible] and a person can [illegible] the top of it [illegible].

[illegible] the [illegible] is a slough [illegible] yards in width, and the levee [illegible] five to eight feet in height. The [illegible] distance west of this, begins to [illegible] narrow, the walls [illegible] to be so thin as to [illegible] stone, and as you approach the west end, stone is not so frequently seen in the levee. At the West end of the lake a slough [illegible] the Boyer. The lake then [illegible] to the South, and forms a [illegible] of nearly two hundred [illegible] high, rolling, excellent prairie land, and [illegible] the main waters of the lake as to leave [illegible] barely wide enough for a wagon to [illegible]. A settler has put a pair of bars across the [illegible], and in this manner has obtained a pasture of two hundred acres securely fenced all [illegible]. The wall commences on the east side of the Boyer slough, and continues around the south [illegible] the lake to the northeast corner, and [illegible] up at all low places. The levee is so [illegible] that a person can walk almost entirely [illegible] lake on it.

At several places on the south side, on high [illegible], embankments were thrown up, as though they intended to form breastworks. They make [illegible] places for a person to walk up from behind [illegible] to shoot ducks and geese on the lake. I don't know whether they were built for that purpose or not; but I think the design was splendid, and it was fine fun to lay behind them and beat aquatic birds as they swim in the lake or light in it. The levee in many places is built of [illegible], gravel and dirt all combined—in other places, of stone covered from the north or south side with dirt, the real rich black soil. It is in fact a real curiosity, and the more you look at it, the more you wonder who did it. How came those [illegible], large stones, of two or more tons weight in the [illegible], and in many places lying on top of smaller stones. Who made such perfect and complete levees all around the lake in the low places? The walls resemble very much the cobble-stone walls seen around farms in Pennsylvania, Western New York, Michigan and Indiana. It is a splendid place for fishing, and abounds in the very finest quality of fish in great abundance."

USELESS ADVICE.—A curious bit of advice, entitled "To Young Men on the Marry," is making the rounds of the interior press. It commences thus:

Young men about to marry—observe the dark girl with a large leg will [illegible] fat at thirty, and lie abed reading novels until midday. The brunette, with slender, very [illegible] limbs, will worry your soul out with jealousy. The olive-skinned [illegible], with a pretty rounded leg will make you happy. The blonde with large limbs will de[illegible] at thirty-five to the possessor of a pair of ankles double the natural size, and afflicted with rheumatism. The fair haired [illegible] with thin limbs will get up at half past 5 in the morning to scold the servants, and will [illegible] her nights talking scandal over tea.

With a great deal more of the same sort about girls with "sturdy legs," and girls with "muscular legs." Supposing these rules to be perfectly reliable, and the result of extensive investigation and induction, what's the use of them? The girls won't give their beaux "a show" until it's too late. But if the prevailing fashions go a little farther only a very little, those hints will assume quite a practical character.—Dramatic Chronicle.

A double line of rail is nearly completed between Pittsburg and Philadelphia, the main obstacle to this, the heavy job of masonry at Jack's Narrows, being almost finished. The job, a wall of about a mile in length, and twenty feet in hight, has employed some thirty men for nearly three years.

THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT!

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING PURCHASED the "UNION BOOK & JOB PRINTING OFFICE," of T. F. McElroy, propose to issue a Weekly Newspaper at Olympia, W. T., on or about the 1st of December next, to be called THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT.

The paper will be devoted to the Agricultural, Mechanical, Commercial, Mineral, Moral and Political interests of the whole Territory.

In Politics we shall uphold and sustain the Union Principles of the Nation, at the same time reserving the right to be INDEPENDENT on all subjects, that we may be better able to discuss all matters in their true light, and give credit wherever it is due.

We trust our friends will circulate this prospectus generally, and assist us in getting a good list of Subscribers, Advertisements, or Job Work. We also invite correspondence from all sections of the Territory.

THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT will be issued every Saturday, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Hoping to receive a share of public favor, we unfurl our banner to the breeze.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you a consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are dragging out a miserable existence from the effects of [illegible], or from [illegible] absorbed into the system! Look at their [illegible] and disfigured faces and their [illegible] down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this [illegible] suffer until death [illegible]. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are [illegible] with any of these horrible [illegible] destroying [illegible] that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his life study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended [illegible] who in their publications, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, [illegible] upon the public by using the [illegible] of eminent physicians from [illegible] and other places [illegible] to be careful and make strict [illegible], or you may fall into the hands of some charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

[illegible] secret vice, or depraved [illegible] by the youth of both sexes to an alarming [illegible] with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow [illegible], dark spots [illegible] the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, [illegible] of the limbs, [illegible] loss of [illegible] in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of [illegible] about the face, [illegible] tongue, fetid breath, coughs, [illegible] sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not [illegible], should apply [illegible] immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and unrivalled mode of treating this disease, which never fails of [illegible] a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove [illegible] to him that he was cured of this [illegible] of the San F[illegible].

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to [illegible] relief.

TO THE LADIES.

The various complicated and distressing diseases incident to females, treated with great success. Such as Suppression, Irregularities, Whites, Falling of the Womb, Tumors, all Urinary Diseases, Nervous Debility, Painful or Difficult Menstruation, [illegible], etc., will be [illegible] cured, without [illegible] or injury of any kind. Have no [illegible] no difference what your troubles may be. The [illegible] are cordially invited to call and [illegible] themselves.

[illegible] at Dr. Gibbon's [illegible] packages of medicines, may rely upon his [illegible] confidential [illegible] with implicit faith, and any [illegible] more than to be charged with a fair, and in [illegible] satisfactory remuneration for services rendered, [illegible] the city [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible], rather than a too prevalent and [illegible] of [illegible].

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written [illegible], binding himself to [illegible] radically and permanently cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

[illegible] may be CURED AT HOME, by [illegible] letter to Dr. Gibbon, [illegible] length of time the [illegible] has continued, and have [illegible] promptly forwarded, free from [illegible] and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
